

WESTERLY

The latest real estate rumor is to the effect that the amusement company now owners of the Borden Opera house, now contemplated the erection of a theatre building in Main street, and now considering the purchase of a more desirable site on Broad street. The proposed site is at the corner of Union street, now covered in part by a wooden building facing Broad street and another fronting on Union street. Included in the plot is a large open space extending to the old news hall, the rear of the James A. Welch building, and along one side of the old Dixon house property. This tract and buildings is owned by Mrs. Katharine Welch. This is an ideal site for a theatre and, with the removal of these wooden buildings, would greatly enhance the beauty of Westerly's city centre. This site is diagonally opposite the Library and Memorial building, is opposite Wilcox park, and in the corner above in Westerly's town hall and court house.

The frontage on Broad street is not more than thirty feet, but ample for an attractive entrance and front for a theatre building, while there is ample room along Union street, and rear of the Welch building for a theatrical structure. Parties directly concerned in this report of transaction profess lack of information concerning the proposed deal, but should it be effected, would be pleased, probably, to give the matter out for publication. With the wooden house at the corner of Broad and Union street, raised, the only wooden structure remaining in that section would be the First Baptist church.

Owners of motor boats in Rhode Island, when fined for infraction of the navigation laws by Frank Pittsman, collector of customs, do not come across without first registering a decided kick against the justice of the law. The collector received the shock of his official career on Tuesday when a Washington county boat owner came across with a $100 check, covering two fines of $100 each, and without a tinge of protest. The collector was so surprised that he informed the offender that he had the right of appeal and that before the check was cashed he would be given reasonable time to institute proceedings. The payment of the fine by the Washington county man, is the first instance on record in this customs district, where a motor boat owner failed to give many excuses for violating government regulations.

Providence Zionist organizations have appointed fifteen members of the executive committee, to represent the district on the general committee of arrangements for memorial services, in honor of the late Colonel Harry Cutler. Prominent Zionists throughout the country are to be invited to the memorial, including Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis. The death of Colonel Cutler is generally mourned. In a Westerly show window is a painted card, with these words:

"We mourn our loss; a Great Jew and Good American, Harry Cutler."

Westerly members will attend the annual field day and dinner of the Republican Club of Rhode Island at Rocky Point today (Thursday). Secretary Edgar Rogers states that reports show that there will be an unusually large attendance. Colonel H. Anthony Dyer, the president of the club, will have general charge of the event. The principal speaker will be Congressman Foster. He will be accompanied from New York, by Governor Beechman, who will be on the return trip from a visit to Senator Harding.

Henry Becklin, 33, Civil war veteran, died Tuesday afternoon at his home in Providence, the last of a family of ten. He was a brother of Professor John K. Becklin, manager of the old Mystic Valley Institute, and who commanded Battery E, First Regiment, Light Artillery, of Rhode Island, in the Civil war. Henry Becklin served in the Fourth Connecticut Infantry, subsequently the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery, and was wounded in action. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Cora B. Smith and Mrs. Edward O. Card.

Secretary Byron C. Richards of the Rhode Island State Board of Health, is enroute to San Francisco, where he will attend the forty-sixth annual meeting of the American Health Association as a representative of the state board. After the convention, he will go to Denver on official business, and then to Winona, Mo. He will be away the rest of the present month.

The scallop fishing season opened on Wednesday in Rhode Island and with it goes into effect a restriction prohibiting a catch of more than fifteen bushels in any one day for each boat actually engaged in the industry by licensed fishermen. It is said the harvests will not be plentiful this season. The principal scallop beds in Rhode Island are near East Greenwich.

Representative Ambrose E. Kennedy has aspirations toward the senatorship after the gubernatorial election, in which case he would be crossing the political ambitions of Governor Beechman, according to rumor. He is said to have his political eye upon the post now occupied by Senator Gerry, whose term expires in 1933. The following clipping is from the Washington Evening Star:

"Representative Ambrose E. Kennedy of Rhode Island, who took a prominent part in war and international adjustment legislation as a majority member of the house committee on foreign affairs, is a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Rhode Island in the approaching state election. His counsel in party affairs has been given most serious consideration and he has the reputation of being one of the best-reputed men and ablest speakers in the house."

"One of his activities in congress resulted in allowing the corner park at Rhode Island avenue, Connecticut avenue and M street—in front of St. Matthew's church and the residence of Chief Justice White—as the site for a memorial to the nurse who served as nurses on the battlefields."

Mr. Kennedy is a graduate of Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., and Boston University Law School. He was for several years principal of the high school and superintendent of schools in his native town, Blackstone, Mass. He was a colonel on the staff of Governor Pothier of Rhode Island from 1909 to 1912, inclusive.

"Before coming to Congress he was speaker of the Rhode Island house of representatives. He was the first representative in congress from the new Third district and has never been defeated in a political contest."

"Mrs. Kennedy, who was Miss Anastacia G. Leahy of Middleboro, Mass., was extremely popular in Washington society, but has devoted much of her time at home in Woonsocket to the care of their four sons."

The Seventh Day Baptist Missionary society, board of managers, with headquarters at Westerly, submitted the twenty-eighth annual report to the general conference in Alford, N. Y., last week. Preliminary to the business report are resolutions on the death of William Clark, for many years president of the board, and who was president emeritus when he died in Westerly last May. The maintenance debt has been reduced from $3,000 to $1,000.

The general permanent funds now amount to $108,888.61, the income last year being $5,704.50. The fund of $1,000 of the memorial fund held in trust for the purpose of $1,000, from which has been $1,935.31. Additions to the general permanent funds are: Bequests of Arletta G. Rogers, $2,000.00; Fannie R. Shaw, $1,014.50; Oliver Davis, $4,935.00; Mrs. J. H. Davis, $1,234.63; Adeline Kenyon, $3,232.27; gift of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan P. Hales, $300.00; sale of Adeline Kenyon farm, $951.78; sale of church property at Westerly, $224.50; total $11,768.33.

The budget for 1931, is as follows: Home field, $12,190; South America, $2,100; Holland and Java, $1,000; China, $7,500; administration, $1,200; total, $23,990.

Deaf Arthur E. Main, acting pastor of the First Baptist church, extended the welcome to Alford at the general conference. Two reports were given to the assembly, one by Rev. Main, and the other by Rev. Burdick of Westerly spoke for the east. He said the two men on the program to report to Alford's welcome were born in the same western town, and attended the same school. He spoke in place of Rev. D. Bennett Coon, but felt that it was appropriate for him to do so, since Mr. Coon had been called away and especially since the speaker was himself half Coon and his first pastorate in Coon town.

Rev. Mr. Burdick thought it unnecessary to have any address of welcome to Alford as all were familiar with the former hospitality of the people. His first experience at conference in Alford was rather chilling for the delegates arrived in a snow storm; but even then he found it so warm in the homes that the snow storm was soon forgotten.

In closing Mr. Burdick said: "We are like a family and if we do differ in methods we are not lacking in courtesy. Open doors are larger than ever, and we have a broader vision of the world's needs. These calls for the exercise of grace, for faith, hope and love. If we cannot have love evening great sacrifices will be of little service."
